German Service Provider Opens Fourth Location in Greece

In early 2025, regiocom will open another service center in Greece, this time in Kavala. The company's CEO, Dirk Moritz, announced this news at regiocom's headquarters in Magdeburg, Germany. "We've found a great location in Kavala and are currently developing the center," said Dirk Moritz.

With more than 6,500 employees, regiocom is the largest owner-managed provider of German-speaking customer service. The company has been active in Greece for two years, is on a growth trajectory, and now operates with 250 employees across three locations: Alexandroupolis, Serres, and Thessaloniki.

The new center in Kavala will create an additional 100 jobs.

"At all our locations, we find employees who are highly skilled, speak German, and enjoy working with people," explained Dirk Moritz. "That's why we are continuing to expand our business in Greece." The quality of work is so high that more and more clients are requesting support from Greece.

The company is looking for employees who speak good German. Everything else is taught through in-house training at regiocom. "Starting now, our job openings in Kavala are listed on the regiocom careers page," said Konstantinos Malioukas, Regional Manager for Greece. "We're excited to hear from anyone interested. If you'd like to learn more, simply reach out to our recruiters."

The first training sessions will begin at the end of January.
